This can be verified experimentally provided we have an apparatus capable of